Royal Engineers Museum

This year, as part of our continued effort to provide schools with the most unique and engaging offers possible, the Royal Engineers Museum, Library and Archive brought in some First and Second World War re-enactors to spice up the visits of local schools.

The free day out was a part of the Museum's "Lest We Forget..." weekend, and gave students the chance to ask questions of the experts and see the kit in action.

Due to the huge success of this event, the REMLA is planning on making this a recurring theme, so keep your eyes open for free schools offers in 2010!

HIGHLIGHT: SEASONAL WORKSHOPS

To celebrate the holiday seasons, the REMLA Learning Service has created several seasonal workshops to make the holidays special.

Spice up your studies of the First or Second World Wars with our special Christmas workshops: Christmas on the Home Front (WW2) and A Christmas Truce (WW1). Both sessions are only available in the month of December.

Through the month of October and until 11

November, the Museum offers a workshop called "Why Do We Remember?" This workshop teaches children about Remembrance Day and explains how it came to be, and why we wear poppies.

Finally, in celebration of National Armed Forces Day, the month of June will feature "Know the Soldiers" workshops, during which, students can have some question time with serving and veteran soldiers. Perfect for studies of citizenship.
